

Roger Denney

December 25, 1949 - September 20, 2012

Roger Denney: Roger finished his long battle with cancer, Thursday morning, surrounded by his family at his home in Robins.

Roger and Gerry sold their home and moved into a large motor home following his retirement and they set off to see the country; his goal was to visit every national park. Roger so enjoyed the Grand Canyon he spent four seasons there, driving a tour bus, hiking and enjoying the area. Roger was a man of many interests and talents: early in his life he enjoyed bowling and starred on ""Let's Go Bowling"" with Jim Zabel; he also enjoyed golfing, hunting and fishing. Roger was self-taught on the guitar and the banjo; he played in a small group at retirement homes, churches and many bluegrass festivals; he enjoyed pickin' and strummin' with his friends. Roger's family was the source of his greatest enjoyment; he shared all his interests and talents with them and just enjoyed the time they were together.
